What's New in the AutoCAD?

The new Markup Import function in AutoCAD is a powerful and convenient way to integrate feedback from your colleagues. Easily import text, sketches and other graphical content into your drawings. Place the feedback on the drawing as a comment or a new layer. Receive the comment with a new command and incorporate it right away. You can even choose the type of feedback, so that the words and comments can be displayed in different colors. This video shows how the Markup Import feature can be used to integrate feedback from colleagues: Rapidly adjust the viewing perspective for accurate drawing and design. The new “Perspective Lock” feature makes it easy to adjust a drawing for many different viewpoints while keeping them aligned with the drawing plane. (video: 2:45 min.) “Perspective Lock” enables you to lock your drawings at specific viewing perspectives while viewing them from other angles. This way, you can view the same drawing from different angles, while maintaining all the geometry on a single drawing plane. The new “Perspective Lock” feature makes it easy to adjust a drawing for many different viewpoints while keeping them aligned with the drawing plane. The “Perspective Lock” feature is especially useful when you have a 3D layout on a flat plane. In this case, you can easily adjust the drawing for different perspectives. Improved Layout and Design Tools: Control and navigate the design space much faster with the new EZ Design tools. (video: 1:55 min.) “Snap to Grid” and “Snap to Shape” make the drawing space more user-friendly. Just click on the desired grid or shape, then place your cursor over it and a pop-up shows you the dimensions of the grid or shape. “Snap to Grid” and “Snap to Shape” make the drawing space more user-friendly.
